

News from the Village Club

70 Years in the Making

The Club has invested in a reconditioned bar billiard table. The table, made of oak some 70 years ago, will offer members, over the age of 16, the opportunity to play this "older" type of bar game. Maybe a club league could be formed? Signs are that this, as well as the balls, will go down well!

Local Artists' Picture Display

Thanks to our artists Nicky Grainger, Mary Johns and Jenny Boatwright for providing the club with such a wide and accomplished selection of original water and oil paintings. The Sunday opening display was a tremendous success with many "old and new" members, visitors and friends attending. A number of the paintings have now gone to "good homes" and will be treasured by their new owners. There are still a number of exhibits on display so please call in to see us.

Barnardo's Benefit

The substantial sum of £600 was raised at the Village Club's Race Night for the benefit of the world famous charity for young people. Our thanks go to all who attended and/or supported the event which once again proved to be most popular.

We will have to wait

The Village Club "Half a Ton" Celebration did not take place on May 19th but will be rescheduled for a date to be advised in July. Hopefully members, guests and friends will be able to attend and support the Club's 50 years in their West Street premises.

Hoping to see you at the Club

Mid Summer Concert

We are planning a Mid Summer Concert at St Mary's Hunton on Saturday June 23rd at 7.30pm, when Brian Moore, the organist at All Saints Maidstone and Elspeth Robertson, Maidstone Young Musician of the year 2006/7 will be performing. The concert promises to be a pleasant mixture of music, on the organ and recorder, suitable for an English summer's evening.

The concert is being held to mark the 'return to playing condition' of our fine 'Willis' organ at St Mary's. It sadly fell silent for some 16 months from September 2005 to January 2007 as a result of asbestos being found in the blower box and bellows of the instrument. Fortunately, after over £11,000 of testing and treatment and a new blower box, the organ is back and some have said 'brighter than ever'.

Tickets costing: £10 for Adults, £8 Concessions and £25 for a Family Ticket. Available from the Parish Office 01622 747570 or on the door on the night.

Organist and Choirmaster

All items for the July issue to the Editors as soon as possible, and by 15th June, please

Dear Friends,

Trinity Sunday is on June 3rd. This has been referred to as 'the preacher's nightmare!' This was said because the preacher has to address the question: 'how does one speak intelligibly about our God who is 'Three-in-One' - yet still 'One'?

One simple analogy is that of St. Patrick's example of the shamrock leaf. In many people's thinking down the centuries it has been to think of God as three separate entities. In truth no person of the Trinity is any less God than the others, in particular, the Son and the Holy Spirit are not 'demigods' or intermediaries, subordinate to the Father.

We say in the Creed that 'We believe in One God' - yet in our thinking we tend to drift towards three. Christianity is 'Monotheistic' - but in our thinking we are often 'Tritheistic'. We have the earliest indications of our Monotheistic God in the Book of Genesis. God sees that the world He has created needs someone to look after it. So we read in Genesis 1:26 -

'Then God said: Let us make Human Beings (Mankind) in our own image, in our own likeness.'

Here is the first Biblical reference to the unity of the Godhead. In what ways are we made in God's image? God didn't create us exactly like Himself because God has no physical body. Instead we are reflections of God's glory. Our entire self reflects the image of God. We have the ability to reflect God's character in our love, patience, forgiveness, kindness and faithfulness. Because we bear God's image we can feel positive about ourselves, to know that we are of worth. It is a sad reflection on modern day society that in so many ways the image of God is defaced in many people's lives. How this must sadden God.

As many of you know Diana recently returned from seeing her family in Australia. One of the things which she commented on as she looked at the countryside was 'the greening', that time when Mother Nature bursts forth and the trees and hedgerows have that bright green glow. The Church uses the colour of green during the season of Trinity to indicate the time of growing in faith. The long pilgrimage which we begin on Trinity Sunday is a time to 'grow with God', He who comes to us in the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Spirit. Peter

The force behind the abolition of The Slave Trade - a local connection

Our local connection to the abolition of the slave trade is unlikely to become known as history will be distorted by the feature film on William Wilberforce, however good it may be. Perhaps the 'Teston Circle' and the work of the Rector of Teston, James Ramsey should be better remembered.

The Teston Circle was a group of literary philanthropists and political figures who met at the London and Teston (Barham Court) homes of Sir Charles Middleton, controller of the Navy (later Lord Barham and the first Lord of the Admiralty) it was from this group that the successful campaign against the slave trade was launched.

Middleton had the living of Teston Church. In the 1780s this fell vacant and he offered it to his secretary, James Ramsey. Ramsey (1733-1789) had had first hand experience of the iniquities of the slave trade, firstly as a Royal Navy Surgeon, and later, for 15 years as a surgeon and ordained minister on St Kitts. In 1784 he published two works: "Essay on the treatment and Conversion of African Slaves in the British Sugar Colonies" and "An inquiry into putting a stop to the African Slave Trade". These works were crucial in inspiring Thomas Clarkson to devote his life to the abolitionist cause. And with a member of the Teston Circle, Granville Sharpe, Clarkson set up a committee for effecting the abolition of the slave trade in 1787. It was Ramsey's work which also persuaded and influenced William Wilberforce and William Pitt to carry the campaign into parliament in 1789.

The playwright Hannah Moore, a member of the Teston Circle predicted that "Teston will be the Runnymede (Magna Carta site) of the Negroes" David Heaton

A new website for walkers in Kent

There's no doubt about it, walking is good for you. It's good for your heart, it's good for your lungs, it's good for the muscle and bone growth of your children and it's good for your feeling of wellbeing! Strong scientific evidence now supports the many benefits to health of regular walking - it is recommended that we take at least 10,000 steps a day.

Walking offers a great way to help kids get the active habit. If parents express excitement about the prospect of a walk in the countryside, they are more likely to transmit this feeling to their children. It's important to treat the walk as an exploration or adventure and to go at the child's pace, no matter how often they want to stop and look at things; take treats to eat and plenty to drink, and head for some landmark that will appeal to them such as a castle, a playground, an ice cream van or a boating pond. If children experience walking as part of a fun activity they are more likely to want to go again.

So, how do you find out what is on offer? John Harris, a keen walker, got fed up with the lack of information on walks that were going on in the county. So, he decided that if he couldn't find what he was looking for - he had better create it! So www.walkinginkent.co.uk came into being.

APRIL BOOK REVIEW The Pickwick Papers by Charles Dickens

The Pickwick Papers, Dickens' first novel is widely regarded as the most famous of all pre-Victorian novels. Originally serialised in monthly instalments, its sales reached 40,000 copies by the fifteenth number. In 160 years since the book's first publication, Mr Pickwick, Sam Weller and the Pickwickian crew and their adventures have entered the consciousness of all who love English literature in general and the works of Dickens in particular.

As a group of keen readers we somehow felt that we let Dickens down. There are a couple of us who thoroughly love Dickens work but the majority found this book hard to get into. We caught snippets of his superb wit and can appreciate his style but felt that perhaps we are too removed by time to understand his humour completely, our failing not his.

We feel that perhaps The Pickwick Papers was not a good choice for us to start our Dickens pathway and although many of us didn't finish the book we are determined to give this celebrated author another chance and will read more of his work.

Because we failed to finish these "papers" we didn't feel we were in a position to award scores and considered it would have been insulting to this renowned writer.

Our book for May is The Catcher in the Rye by J D Salinger.

Out and Out - Ways with Wisteria

Wisteria is one of the wonders of the early summer garden dripping with deliciously scented flowers in shades from deep mauve to pink and white. Wisteria are traditionally seen sprawling across walls or hanging from pergolas. If you don't have that much room their size can be contained by pruning to grow them in pots, over arches and even trained to form a standard as a lawn or centre of bed feature.

I recently 'met' a wisteria which was 34 years old and no more than 5 feet tall, it had been grown in a pot and was almost totally covered in flowers.

When buying a wisteria choose a named cultivar that has been grafted. These will generally flower sooner and with more consistency than seed grown specimens. If you can buy a plant already in flower so much the better, you'll know what you're getting and have a guarantee of future flowers.

A woman came up behind him and touched the edge of his cloak. Luke 8.44

There is a story of a doctor who worked devotedly among leprosy patients for many years. Every day he would greet them, 'Good morning, my brothers and sisters'. What an affirmation of worth this must have been to those whose biological families, and whole of society, had ostracised them. But one day his greeting changed, and they heard these doom-laden words, 'Good morning, my fellow lepers'. His identification with patients was complete. Jesus' incarnation was a similar kind of identification. Laying aside his divine majesty, he took on mortal flesh, and entered human society. Since the children have flesh and blood, he too shared in their humanity, wrote the author of Hebrews.

But Jesus did more even than that. As he went about, he identified himself not only with human nature but also with uncleanness, sin and death. When the desperate woman, suffering from incurable bleeding, reached out and touched his robe, Jesus could have ignored her. But in acknowledging her touch he was, according to the Levitical law, making himself ritually unclean. On other occasions, he took the initiative, as when he touched a man with leprosy and the dead body of a widow's only son. And ultimately Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us, for it is written: 'cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree. (Galatians 3:13) How far such actions set Jesus apart from the Gods of other religions! I hope that it is not irreverent to say that I would find it hard to believe in a loving God if it wasn't for Jesus.

Jesus self-abasement is, however, far more an argument for our view of God. It gives us deep assurance of Jesus' love for individuals, for you and me, for thug and granny, for prostitute and pimp, for president and pop star. Far more intimately than any human friend or relation, Jesus knows, understands and loves us, and wants to help us to become what he created us to be. But we can also learn from Jesus to regard and treat people, all people, with the same passionate empathy and self-giving love.
